

What is a School-Parent-Teacher Compact?

A school-parent compact for achievement is an agreement that documents how students, parents, and teachers will work together to increase student achievement. This agreement is jointly developed to ensure that ALL students reach grade-level standards. AMS will use the school-parent compact during parent teacher conferences, as well as make reference to it during parent meetings and workshops. Parent comments are always welcome in the continuous development of the School-Parent Compact.

Jointly Developed

The School-Parent Compact is developed by collecting input from teachers, students, parents, and families. Meetings were scheduled during the Fall of 2019 for input. From these meetings, comments, data reports, goals, strategies, and activities were developed.

Throughout the academic school year input is welcome from ALL stakeholders. Comments will be collected and included in the following year's school-parent compact process. Please contact the Title I Parent Liaison, Annette Antonetti, annette.antonetti@clayton.k12.ga.us for more information, or place your comments in the black 'Comment Box' located in the school foyer.

Communication about Student Learning

AMS is committed to ensuring that a strong school-home partnership exists through two-way communication with families about student academic progress. We ask that parents ensure that all contact information the school has on file is always up-to-date.

AMS will use various methods of communication between the school and home such as, text/chat technology, email, USPS mail, phone calls, flyers and information being sent home with students, website updates, school messenger calls, and marquee updates.

Parents are encouraged to schedule conferences with their student's team of teachers (at AMS all core subject teachers MUST participate in parent-teacher conferences). Contact the teachers by email or leave a message in the front office for the teacher in order to schedule a parent-teacher conference.

All students and parents should be using Infinite Campus to keep up with grades, assignments, and attendance. The Parent Liaison can assist with parent access.

Adamson Middle School Activities to Build Partnerships

At AMS, it is our desire to build strong partnerships between home, school and the community. A strong school, parent and community partnership is in the best interest of our students. Parents are encouraged to visit the Parent & Family Resource Center, become volunteers. Day One Volunteers are needed for the first day of school. Volunteers are needed for field trips, hall monitoring, and the front office. Based on parent input, AMS parents prefer meeting and workshops at flexible times and days. Based on these findings, meetings will be scheduled at flexible times/days to accommodate parent needs. Notification will be presented/announced using a multitude of communication methods.
